Kids Grow-Up in 2012

It had to happen sometime, Jim had to give Louise away on June 23rd to Brad Jewell. She moved out of the house, but the family got bigger!

My goodness after a year of wondering, we discovered the world didn't end on 12-21-12, however Meg and William headed to Mexico just as the snow flakes started to fall in Texas. Marc is still dreaming of roller coasters, while Glenn is working towards graduating from the University of Hawaii.

And Jim now has time to catch up . . . with stock photos, learning Windows 8 and doing some home repairs. No excuses, but what's the rush?

After 12 years, the Domke brothers finally got together and although we don't look anything alike, everyone knew we were brothers. Jim takes portraits for Lifetouch, blogs, runs TexPix Publishing selling a line of Texas postcards and was profiled in November at <http://photo.photoart.hk> published in China.

Back When We Mailed Letters . . .

As a personal project, Jim has been searching out the old main Post Offices around Texas. With email and automation the existing PO needs less space and some of the old ones have become banks, libraries, apartments, etc.

Jim is working to document these American landmarks.
